Election Judges Hear Vote Rules

Election judges and other officials met Monday evening at the Court House to hear about changes in election laws. In the November election, each precinct will have two voting lists, said Murrell Ferguson, secretary of the county Electoral Board. One list will have persons eligible to vote in Federal elections only. The other list will have persons eligible to vote in all elections.

Payment of poll tax and proof of payment of county taxes are a requirement in Virginia in order for a voter to cast a ballot for the proposed state constitutional amendment and for nominees for the Robert E. Lee Soil Conservation District.

Just Turned 21

Commonwealth Attorney Harry G. Lawson explained that if a person just turned 21 he can mark all ballots offered this year without paying poll tax, but this is not true for persons over 21.

Just Moved Here

For persons who have moved into the county within the past three years, it may be necessary to obtain proof of payment of taxes from their previous location. Anyone not on the eligible list prepared in May who feels that he is eligible to vote may obtain a certificate from the county treasurer that he has paid taxes, added Attorney Lawson. And county officials are ready to be of assistance to voters who desire information, he said.

Ballots By Mail

Those who must vote by mail can make application to their precinct registrar at least five days prior to the election, including election day.

100 Foot Ruling

Lawson explained that a change in election law says that a ballot may be taken to a voter "a maximum of 100 feet from the polling place by one of the election judges." This means, he said, that persons physically unable to climb the Court House steps in Appomattox, or difficult locations in other areas, may vote from their automobiles or other outside location provided it is within the 100 foot limit.

Train, Truck Collide At Pamplin

A truck loaded with about 35 cylinders of acetylene gas, nitrous oxide and oxygen and the east bound Number 4 Norfolk and Western passenger train collided about 1:40 p.m. Thursday at the Pamplin crossing. No one was hurt seriously. The truck driver, Sam Hamlett, 31, of Lynchburg sustained cuts and abrasions on one knee.

His truck was a complete loss. Impact with the train carried the truck cab 50 feet down the track. According to one witness the body of the truck rolled 'over and over" between the two sets of tracks, and landed 170 feet from the point of impact.

Both the Pamplin Fire Co. and Appomattox Volunteers answered calls to the scene, but only two of the gas tanks burned. Trooper C. H. Wallace investigated the accident.

Park Service Head Talk To Local Directors

William C. Vaughan, president of Appomattox Heritage, announced following Monday's meeting of officers and members of the Board of Directors here that no decision had been reached about producing a "Sound and Light" production at Appomattox National Historical Park.

He said that a decision was expected by the Board within the next few weeks. He said the Board was deeply appreciative of the time and efforts expended by National Park Service officials who have met with Appomattox Heritage.

The National Park Service, he said, has agreed that "Appomattox has a story to tell." The Park Service, represented by the national director George B. Hartzog, Jr.; Elbert Cox, Regional Director, Richmond; C. M. Marshall, assistant Regional Director, William Riverhart, Chief of Interpretation, Washington, D.C., and Grover E. Steele, superintendent of Appomattox National Historical Park, met with Heritage officers and board here on Sept. 25, and made the following proposition:

That Heritage should raise the estimated funds $250,000 and also be responsible for publicity and promotion of the "Sound-Light" show. The National Park Service would hire writers, director, actors, musicians, etc. and would produce the show, and thereafter be responsible for maintenance of a producing staff, ushers, technicians, etc.

Appomattox Heritage, Inc. would continue through the years with publicity and promotion.

President Vaughan's report of the previous meeting Mr. Hartzog said that the Park Service might furnish part of the funds for the production if the Appomattox Heritage promotion failed to produce all of the necessary $250,000 — or if the production ran way over the proposed figure.

Mr. Vaughan said that Mr. Hartzog's visit here was in the nature of an "informal discussion", and that the Heritage officers and board would continue in their thought on the proposition until the next meeting of the Board set for Thursday, Oct. 15 at Appomattox.

Appomattox "Fertile Ground For Statesmen" Says John Wessells

Governor Harrison's executive assistant, John H. Wessells, Jr. said in an address to the Woman's Club here on Monday that "the Civil War Centennial commemoration is planned to conclude in a blaze of light at Appomattox."

He spoke of Appomattox as the best known place in Virginia and the least understood. Speaking to the more than 100 members and visitors he told of Va.'s efforts to attract tourists. "The State's budget for travel promotion has been doubled in the past four years," he said, "and now amounts to more than half a million dollars a year."

"You are also aware right of here," he added, "of the efforts to take advantage of the opportunities still offered by scientific agriculture, tree farms and soil conservation practices demonstrated over in Senator Moses' section of the county."

Wessells paid high tribute to Appomattox as a county with "particularly fertile ground for statesmen."

"The late Senator Ferguson, the Floods, the Abbitts, have been among the families that have continued to provide sound leadership for Virginia," he said. Wessells spoke of Watkins Abbitt as one of "the most effective and respected members" of Congress. "In the General Assembly Senator Moses is the highest ranking member of the State Senate," he said, "and Dr. Pennington, the delegate from the 17th District is a key man on a number of important committees."

He spoke of Virginia's population growth (more than twice the national average), and said that Virginia is attracting a new industrial plant or nurturing a major expansion in an existing plant every two and one-half days." Va.'s economy has generated more than 23,000 jobs, he told the club, and said that this state is neck and neck with Florida for the highest individual income in the South."

He said that though "we think of Appomattox County as essentially a farming area, the figures show that one-fifth of the families in Appomattox County depend on farming for their livelihood. One-third of your families depend on manufacturing, and the rest on trade and commerce. Approximately one-half of the families in this county depend on a bread winner who works outside the county."

He spoke of the need for education. "If Virginia's present rate and direction of growth mean anything, there can be no question about the fact that the man without an education will be the man without a job. And the same thing is true of the women, who make up some thirty per cent of our work force."

Rescue Squad Asking Funds In "Saturday Round-Up"

Like many another "home builder" the county Rescue Squad finds that building a "home" is an expensive proposition. The new building, just off 460 at the western limits of the town of Appomattox, is almost complete, with the exception of a heating unit and rest room facilities.

In a special "Saturday Round-Up" for additional funds, Rescue Squad members are planning to canvass the eastern section of the county: Evergreen, Pamplin, Hixburg and neighboring areas to give county residents an opportunity to give.

Rescue Squad captain is Kenneth Jamerson. First Lt. is John Oxford with two second lieutenants, Pete Doss and Jack Williams. Sgt. is Jimmy Rogers, and other squad members include A. A. Bohannon, C. D. Layne, Nelson Mann, Doug Seamster, William Mann, Donald Ferguson, Marvin House, Jr., Cliff Harvey, Anderson Scruggs, Carl Marlin, Lewis Moore, Gordon Staples, and Tommy Patterson.

Additional Squad members on the inactive list-- plus other helpers are planning to assist. Each will be properly identified, says Captain Jamerson. If you are not home, please stop by Rescue Squad headquarters in Appomattox, says the Captain. A Squad member will be there to accept donations.
